The Finest and Easiest Side Spring Buggy made is the Columbus

It has more desirable features than any other side spring gear. It is so constructed that the center or brace springs serve a double purpose, i. e., both a brace and an equalizer, consequently you get less side motion than on any other side spring gear. Put your whole heft on one step of the COLUMBUS and watch the result, then go through the same operation on any other side spring gear vehicle and you will find the COLUMBUS goes down level, while the others will cant to one side. There has been over 40,000 vehicles with this gear sold, and so far as we know there has never been a spring broken, and its riding qualities are unsurpassed.

THE MAN WHO LEADS THE OLD VETERANS OF GRAND ARMY

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF TORRANCE.

This picture is made from a recent photograph of Judge Eli Torrance, the new commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. Judge Torrance is a resident of Minneapolis. He has been prominent in G. A. R. affairs for many years, but his election as commander-in-chief was in the nature of a surprise to many.

FIRST WROTE RAGTIME.

Ernest Hogan, Now Famous as a Vaudeville Star.

The Kansas City Journal says: Ernest Hogan, whom the vaudeville managers call the unbleached American, is at the Orpheum theater his week. He is paid a big salary, and the theater-going public counts him a success. On the programme and on the billboards the name of Ernest Hogan is printed in large type and he is receiving all the other honors that the average theatrical aspirant longs for.

Not many years ago Ernest Hogan was a very ordinary piano player. His home was in Kansas City and it was while in this town that he composed the words and music to the famous coon song, "Pas Mala." This was really the first ragtime number ever perpetrated upon the public and it will surprise a great many people to know that the coon song got its first start in Kansas City, U. S. A.

Hogan sold "Pas Mala" to a local publisher for the princely sum of $25. He wouldn't have done it, but, as he says himself, he needed the money. Three months after its publication the catchy tune of "Pas Mala" was on every tongue. Managers in the East began sending to Kansas City for the orchestra score. Hogan was elated. He concluded that if his song could "go" in the East that its author could make a hit there also. He journeyed toward New York. Before he left Kansas City he had begun the composition of another coon song. He completed it after he arrived in New York. This song is known to nearly every person in the United States. Its title has been used as a catch phrase a thousand times. It was one of the most popular coon songs ever written and its name is "All Coons Look Alike to Me." Ernest Hogan, the very ordinary Kansas City piano player, wrote the words and music to that song.

While in the East Hogan wrote a letter to the Kansas City man who had published his first song, telling him that he had another and asking if he would publish it on a royalty basis. The Kansas City man answered by telling Hogan that he wouldn't give him royalties, but he would double the price of "Pas Mala" and give him $50 for his "All Coons Look Alike to Me." Hogan laughed at this proposition, for there were a dozen big music publishing concerns anxious to do the work at the author's own terms. "All Coons Look Alike to Me" made a fortune for Hogan and the man who published it. Incidentally, it gave Hogan a standing as a vaudeville artist.

Hogan had tried his hand at acting. He started out of Kansas City in a play called "In Old Tennessee." The play was all right in construction, but the title indicated a copy of "In Old Kentucky," and the show "busted." Hogan did good work in this play in the character of an old negro. He had a good voice, too, and his songs went well. Last summer he was featured on the bills of the summer vaudeville houses. In one New York report he played for six straight weeks.

Hogan is making money hand over fist, as the Irishman would say. Besides his salary as a top-line artist in vaudeville, the royalties from his songs furnish an amount sufficient to keep a whole pack of wolves from the door.

SAGE IS REALLY AN EPICURE. Contrary to a popular belief created by long years of newspaper misrepresentation, Russell Sage is not only quite particular what he eats, but is a valiant trencherman and a good authority on matters of the cuisine. New York papers, in spite of this fact, periodically describe his midday meal as consisting of a cracker, an apple and a glass of water. As a matter of fact he generally lunches in the Western Union building with such men as the Goulds, General Eckart and other officials of the Gould interests.
